There is provision for 10 Special Magistrates in the Civil Service cadre. After the scheme for the separation of Judicial and Executive Functions is introduced into all the Districts, 4 of the First Grade Magistrate's places are to be held by Senior Assistant Commissioners and 6 of the II grade magistrate's places are to be held by Asst. Comrs. This is provided in the G. O. quoted by the Comptroller. As only 2 Senior Assistant Commissioners were holding First Grade Magistrate's posts, the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners was increased in practice by only two against the permissible 4.

Now as Mr. A. Krishnaswamiengar a 3rd Senior Assistant Commissioner has been posted as Special I Grade Magistrate, the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners is proposed to be increased by one bringing the total to three against a permissible maximum of 4. In other words, the sanctioned number of permissible Senior Assistant Commissioners for doing duty as 1st Grade Magistrate is 4. It is because places were not available for 4, that only 2 Senior Assistant Commissioners have been posted for that duty and the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners has been increased only to that extent for the time. Whenever more than 2 Senior Assistant Commissioners do duty as 1st Grade Magistrates, the number of permissible

Senior Assistant Commissioners will be increased by such excess, so long as it lasts.

Accordingly so long as Mr. A. Krishnaswami Iyengar does duty as 1st Grade Magistrate, the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners permissible is 11 and not 10.

It is thus not a case of service outside the cadre but of temporary increase in the actual number of the cadre appointments availed of, within the maximum limit sanctioned.

There is no justification whatever for increasing the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners ~~charges~~ on the ground that another officer of that rank has been posted as a first grade Magistrate. districts in which it is in operation should be larger than one half and that three Assistant Commissioners of the senior grade are required for holding t h e charges of Magistrates.

1. The cadre of Assistant Commissioners has been considerably reduced but the number of senior Assistant Commissioners remains the same, as the following figures will show:

Total strength of Asst. Commissioners.	Number of Senior Asst. Commissioners.
90 (including 10 for Special Magistrates in all the eight districts.)	12.
85 (including 5, being ~~the~~ half the number of Special Magistrates for 4 districts.)	10.
64 (present number of charges)	10.

2. It will be seen from the above figures that the case is really for the[a] reduction of the number of Senior Assistant Commissioners and not for increasing it.

Provisionally permanent appointments are admissible under art 60 mn.s.R which corresponds to art 89 CSR and they are made in vacancies which are likely to last for 3 years and in place of officers who can count service for pension in their new appointments and whose lien in their permanent posts can therefore be suspended.
